LONG ISLAND CITY: CONNECTING THE ARTS

Please join the Design Trust for Public Space and the Long Island City Cultural Alliance for a rousing celebration of Long Island City: Connecting the Arts, a new publication exploring New York's most vibrant arts-and-industrial community.

A must-read for anyone interested in the intersection of New York's creative and manufacturing sectors, this ground-breaking book defines Long Island City's unique character as a springboard for neighborhood development.

Our book-release party — part of the Long Island City arts weekend during Discover Queens Month — will offer beer, wine, and local artisanal foods, as well as outdoor crafts activities for children (weather permitting).

Saturday, May 20th, 5-7 PM
SculptureCenter, 44-19 Purves Street, Long Island City
E/V to 23rd/Ely, G to Court Square, 7 to 45 Road/Courthouse Square

DESIGN TRUST FOR PUBLIC SPACE

The Design Trust for Public Space creates public/private partnerships to improve New York City. We bring together neighborhoods, public agencies, and design professionals to find innovative opportunities for change. For more information, visit www.designtrust.org.

The Long Island City Cultural Alliance (LICCA) has nine member organizations: Dorsky Gallery Curatorial Programs, Fisher Landau Center for Art, Museum for African Art, Museum of the Moving Image, the Noguchi Museum, P.S.1 Contemporary Art Center, SculptureCenter, Socrates Sculpture Park, and Thalia Spanish Theatre. LICCA is committed to promoting and increasing the visibility and accessibility of Long Island City. For more information, visit www.licarts.org.
